Can I Market Myself as a Student Lactation Consultant?

LER is sensitive to ensuring that those who receive breastfeeding or chestfeeding support and lactation care have an accurate understanding of the education level, certification, and/or credential of their lactation care provider.

Currently enrolled individuals are welcome to identify themselves as “LER students” for the purpose of connecting with other students and enhancing their learning experience.

The terms “LER student” or “CBS student” (or similar language) may not be used in the marketing or provision of lactation care. The CBS is reserved for those who have fully completed their coursework and received a passing score on the CBS exam. Find our student policies here.
